

Author Biography

Donna Cuevas Roeder & Anjeanetta Prater Matthews

Co-authors of Hopscotch

Donna Cuevas Roeder is a current Bilingual Academic Intervention teacher in Houston, Texas. She received her M.Ed in Curriculum and Instruction from the University of Houston in 1998. She is trained in Descubriendo la Lectura and has 16 years of experience working with at risk students in the areas of reading and writing. She is fluent in English and Spanish.

Anjeanetta Prater Matthews is a current Bilingual Academic Intervention teacher in Houston, Texas. She received her M.Ed in Bilingual Education from Houston Baptist University in 1995. She is trained in Reading Recovery and Descubriendo la Lectura and has 18 years of experience working with low achieving students in the area of reading. She is fluent in English, Spanish and French.

The Hopscotch series is the culmination of their passion for education and understanding of what children need for language and literacy development.

